

Barbara Pelkmann is a systemic psychologist and international consultant/ trainer. She is working with international organisations, companies and associations on their change processes and is also co-manager of the Intercultural Institute of Systemic Competences (IICoS). She offers various training courses around systemic thinking and working, psychotraumatology, leadership and communication.

She also teaches intercultural competences in various university courses in Germany and France.